

STAT S-110. Introduction to Probability (CRN: 31483)

Herman Chernoff PhD, Professor of Statistics, Emeritus, Harvard University

A first course in probability pointed toward applications, for students with some calculus. Models include the normal, binomial, exponential, Poisson, and gamma distributions. Topics include expectation, independence, conditioning, generating functions, joint distribution and density functions, and limit laws.